

OBEY AND GO
(Partners of Jesus in Bringing People to Him)

A Lord’s Flock Worship Service Topic

By: Fr. Alex Balatbat
September 19, 2026

As disciples of Jesus, we are called to “Go and make disciples of all nations...” (Matthew 28:18–20). Sharing the Gospel is not only for priests or missionaries. Since we have received Jesus, we have been called to share the Good News, to help bring others closer to Him and to practice living on earth as in heaven.

1. PROCLAIM GOD’S GOODNESS IN ALL SEASONS.

- 1.1. Let us proclaim God’s goodness when we receive good news and blessings. It is our mission and duty to give Jesus as a gift to others.
- 1.2. We should also proclaim the goodness of the Lord even in difficult seasons. It is easy to proclaim the goodness of God when everything is going well. However, even when we are hurting, grieving, or going through a dark season, we can use our suffering to say, “God is good to me.” Our circumstances may change, but God remains good and faithful.
- 1.3. We recognize God’s presence in every season. In laughter and tears, misery and joy, life and death, God is present. Even our struggles can become testimonies of His goodness. The Canaanite woman, despite her desperation and difficult situation, continued to believe in Jesus (Matthew 15:21-28). Her faith showed that she trusted who Jesus was, even when her situation was not changing. Her story became a testimony of His goodness and power.

2. SHARE WHAT WE HAVE RECEIVED.

- 2.1. We have received the Good News, hope, love, grace, and salvation through Jesus. What God gives us is not meant to stop with us, it is meant to flow to others, through us.
- 2.2. The more we experience His love and faithfulness, the more we have something to share with others. We are blessed to bless others.

2.3. Our words can encourage others to know Jesus, trust Him, and to experience His love. By sharing His goodness, we give others a glimpse of a taste of heaven and know who Jesus really is.

3. OUR LIVES ARE LIVING PROCLAMATIONS OF JESUS.

- 3.1. Our testimony does not have to be grand to point people to Jesus. We can simply tell others how Jesus changed us, helped us through difficult seasons, answered our prayers, and taught us to trust Him.
- 3.2. Our smiles, kindness, concern, acts of service, and willingness to help can become simple ways of proclaiming His love; they can see something of Jesus through us.

4. PRACTICE LIVING ON EARTH AS IN HEAVEN.

- 4.1. Start living for heaven today. There is a story about a family that will be migrating to the U.S. next year. As early as now, the son started preparing by practicing speaking in English. Similarly, if our destination is heaven, we should start practicing the life of heaven here on earth.
- 4.2. Let Christ shape who we are. Let the attitude of Christ shape our attitude, the words of Christ shape our words, and the thoughts of Christ shape our thoughts. The more we live like Jesus, the more naturally we can show Jesus to others.

CONCLUSION

Our life should proclaim who Jesus is. We are not only receivers of the Good News, but we are also messengers of it. The hope we have received from Christ is meant to be shared with others. Our story can bring someone closer to Jesus. Our kindness can show His love. Our testimony can give someone hope. Thus, let us be partners of Christ in bringing people to Him, today!

REFLECTION:

- 1. What stories of your life (conversion, tears, blessings) can be words of proclamation?
- 2. Are you bringing people one step closer to Jesus or are you the reason why people drift away from God?

SCRIBES Ministry
Transcribed by: Cynthia R. Arevalo
Edited by: Ma. Vera Tuplano
Tags: #Proclaim #Evangelize, #Obey
<https://lordsflock.org/teachings/digests/>
<https://www.facebook.com/share/p/1GHycEZCbh/>